Welcome to the Underwater world:

The Maldives are beautiful coral islands surrounded by living reef, 26 Atolls in the middle of the Indian Ocean. Water temperature is warm (26 - 30 degrees Celsius) and varies with depth (0 - 30 meters). Coral is fragile and grows very slowly, about 2.5 cm per year, so to avoid damage, do not touch or step on it.

We also see an abundance and variety of other marine creatures found on the living reef, including 150 species of tropical fish such as sweet lips, surgeon fish, parrot fish, butterfly fish and many more. There are many turtles seen on the beautiful reefs. Most marine life that we encounter is harmless, however some, such as stonefish, scorpion fish and lion fish may give a dangerous sting. These fish are rarely found in a sandy lagoon but to be safe, always watch where you place your bare feet. You may also see white tip, grey reef and nurse sharks during a dive. Mantas

Spinner dolphins are commonly seen, usually from aboard a boat because the dolphins are shy creatures.

The lagoon is a safe nursery in which juvenile sharks and rays grow and learn to survive. Eventually, they move outside the lagoon into the reef zone. It is interesting and fun to watch the baby sharks herd baitfish trying to catch the weak ones for a meal. Also, to watch the rays burrow into the sand looking for crabs to eat. In the Maldives, these marine creatures are considered harmless when treated in the proper manner. Diving with reef sharks and manta rays is a popular attraction.
